Counties looking to leverage $50M economic development opportunity

BY BOB DEMAREE

A $500 million statewide Regional Economic Acceleration and Development Initiative (READI), is spurring a sense of excitement among local officials about what could be achieved through Our Southern Indiana Regional Development Authority (OurSIRDA) for Jefferson, Scott, Clark, Floyd and Washington counties with such an infusion of money.

"We have the opportunity of a lifetime," said OurSIRDA Chair Dana Huber at Friday's Board of Directors meeting that included a presentation of the READI program by Mark Wasky, vice president of Innovation and Strategic Initiatives for the Indiana Economic Development Corporation (IEDC).

READI encourages communities to team up regionally to improve economic development efforts. As part of the program, individual regions — there are 10 in the state — can be awarded up to $50 million for implementation of their regional development plans.

That's enough money to draw interest from a wide array of governmental officials and entities throughout the five-county region. Friday's meeting was attended by about 60 people — as well as others watching online — including a table with Madison Mayor Bob Courtney and Jefferson County Commissioner David Bramer.

Beginning this Wednesday, at a special meeting at Hanover College's Ogle Center, OurSIRDA will issue a call for projects from local governments, developers and private entities to be submitted by July 20. On Aug. 6, the five-member Board of Directors will meet to prioritize those projects and approve a draft of the Regional Development Plan with the board approving the plan on Aug. 20. On Aug. 31, the RDA will submit its plan with IEDC expecting to finalize funding recommendations before the end of 2021.

Wasky said READI is based the idea that "promoting collaborative, long-term strategic planning for regions focused on quality of place, quality of life, and beyond ... play a role in someone's decision to locate or stay in a community. So, the objective of this is to help grow the state's population."

He said the state wants to invest in regions that create long-term, strategic plans that do just that with a focus on leveraging state dollars to attract private funding to create more development and jobs.

Mark Wasky, vice president of Innovation and Strategic Initiatives for the Indiana Economic Development Corporation, talks about the Regional Economic Acceleration and Development Initiative (READI) program Friday in Scottsburg. The state has earmarked $500 million statewide to boost economic development in 10 regional development districts. Jefferson, Scott, Clark, Floyd and Washington counties are now seeking ways to leverage $50 mllion of that money to have the greatest regional impact locally.

Local road repairs more complicated than anticipated

BY BOB DEMAREE

Federal funding is coming in 2026 to fully mill and repave Madison's Main Street from Jefferson Street to Old State Road 56 at the top of Hanover Hill, but until then the City of Madison is doing its best to maintain the useful life of the roadway.

At Monday's Board of Public Works meeting, Deputy Mayor and Chief of Staff Mindy McGee explained that additional work and money will needed to extend the useful life of that stretch of roadway until that funding becomes available.

Earlier this year, Madison City Council approved spending $500,000 to patch and seal the highway with the solution, TopShell, a cement-based microsurface that bonds with asphalt to provide a tough, smooth surface.

However, McGee said more extensive deterioration of the roadway, particularly on the Hanover Hill area where trucks now are being directed to the center lane because the right lane going up the hill is "quite bad," will make that project more complicated than planned.

McGee said originally the plan was to do a rejuvenation process which "didn't take a lot of patching and paving just to keep the road surface drivable and safe and do the bigger project in a few years" but the deterioration of the roadway is more advanced than anticipated so "there is some patching that is going to have to happen."

She said the city's engineering firm is working with INDOT, which is allowing modifications to be made, on how they will reprioritize their funding for the work.

"When they went through the stretch of road, they found 200 (patches) that needed to done," McGee said. "I don't know that we'll be able to do all of them, but we're going to do as much good work as we can before we put the surface on top of it."

McGee said the change will also require more "crack and seal" because while the TopShell product "makes it look pretty... it's only going to go over what's already there. We want to make it look a little better and more structurally sound before we do it."

In other business:

• Granted Utilities Manager Brian Jackson permission to submit an application to the Drinking Water State Revolving Fund Loan Program. "We want to get our application submitted so we are on the list," said Jackson, who noted the existing storage facilities are past due for a complete rehabilitation, and system controls are in need of upgrade. "Nothing has been done for 20 years," he said.

• Approved a petition to vacate a right-of-way at 1708 Cragmont Street owned by Johann Enterprises. Realtor John Demaree said it was discovered last week that the building, constructed in 1975, had been inadvertently built on the right-of-way because Washington Avenue, the roadway behind the building, had been measured off-center. Demaree said the request is to basically tidy up the property deed to ensure its done correctly. City attorney Joe Jenner said there are likely other properties in the city with the same issue.

Jefferson's COVID-19 death toll increases by 2

Kentucky offering monetary incentives to get the vaccine

BY BOB DEMAREE

Jefferson County's death toll from the COVID-19 pandemic grew by two over the weekend based on information released by the Indiana Department of Health. To date 84 local deaths have now been related to the pandemic.

Jefferson County has had a total 3,340 confirmed cases of COVID-19 — an increase of three from Friday — and the county's current seven-day average positivity rate is 2.9% while the seven-day positivity for unique individuals is 8.5%. Jefferson County's metric level remains in "Blue" for low community spread.

Switzerland County has had a total of 805 positive cases during the pandemic with no increase during the weekend. The county's total deaths during the pandemic in remains at 8 while the county's current seven-day average positivity rate is 3.9% and the seven-day positivity for unique individuals is 7.4%. Switzerland County's metric level is "Yellow" for moderate community spread.

In Jefferson County, 13,067 have been fully vaccinated with 13,039 receiving the first of a two-dose series. Switzerland County has 2,313 fully vaccinated with 2,310 receiving the first of a two-dose series.

In Kentucky, Gov. Andy Beshear announced Friday a new vaccine incentive drawing, called a "Shot at a Million."

Two types of drawings are available for permanent residents of Kentucky. In one drawing, Kentuckians 18 years and older who have received at least their first dose of a Moderna or Pfizer COVID-19 vaccine, or the one-dose Johnson & Johnson vaccine, may enter to win one of three $1 million drawings. The other drawing, for Kentuckians 12 to 17 years old who have received at least their first dose of the Pfizer COVID-19 vaccine, may enter to win one of 15 full scholarships to a Kentucky public college, university, technical or trade school, which includes tuition, room-and-board and books.

"This is a lifesaving and now possibly life-changing opportunity," Beshear said. "You can get your shot of hope and then enter for a shot at $1 million or a shot at one of 15 full scholarships — both protecting you from this deadly virus and possibly transforming your future."

On Monday, 2,104,696 people have received at least their first dose of a COVID-19 vaccine in Kentucky with 1,749,836 fully vaccinated.

On June 5, the Kentucky Department of Public Health reported 369 new cases of COVID-19, bringing the overall total during the pandemic to 460,412 positive cases overall. The total known deaths from COVID-19 in Kentucky is now 7,091 deaths, an increase of five from the previous day.

After days of dry weather, thundershowers dropped almost an inch of rainfall combined on Madison on Wednesday and Thursday of last week and another half-inch over the weekend — including this quick, heavy burst late Thursday morning that briefly overwhelmed storm sewers on Main Street in downtown Madison making travel through some intersections like Jefferson and Main a splashing adventure for motorists. More rain and thunderstorms are forecast through Friday.

Local Briefs

From staff reports

Hiker rescued at Clifty Park

Local rescuers were called on to assist an injured hiker using a basket rescue at Clifty Falls State Park on Saturday afternoon.

A female hiking the Lilly Memorial Overlook suffered a broken an ankle near the bottom of a 160-step stairs and needed assistance getting back to the top at about 3 p.m. on Saturday.

Madison Township Fire Chief Robert Black said the rescue involved carrying the women back up the stairs in a Stokes basket using ropes on the rails of the staircase. Madison Township, Rykers' Ridge and Madison Rescue 6 fire departments all participated in the rescue after the women was immediately assisted by a Hancock County firefighter who happened to be on the scene and had equipment with him.

The woman was then transported to King's Daughters' Hospital for observation by the KDH EMS.

Road closure delayed

A Jefferson County Highway Department road closure on Dawson Smith Road has been postponed by rain until today but with thunderstorms in the forecast through Friday additional postponements could be necessary.

Dawson Smith Road was scheduled to be closed from 7 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday for road repairs between Paper Mill Road and Shun Pike before rain postponed that work until today.

Now the work is scheduled for today, weather permitting, with closure signs posted in the affected area.

Hanging Rock Hill closed Wednesday

The Indiana Department of Transportation plans to close Hanging Rock Hill in Madison on Wednesday, June 9, for litter clean up and maintenance.

The hill, which is part of State Road 7, is expected to close at approximately 9 a.m. and reopen by 4 p.m., weather permitting.

Motorists should use an alternate route while work is in progress.

"We are going to invest in plans that you put together that include items, initiatives, plans and projects that are important for your region to grow and be prosperous," Wasky said. "We can't from Indianapolis tell you in southern Indiana what barriers you have to your growth or what opportunities you see for us to be able to invest. We are looking for you to tell us what you need and provide us the opportunity to come alongside and invest in your plan.

Wasky noted the state is also looking for plans that can provide a level of sustainability beyond the initial influx of cash and stressed "the need to continue this effort even beyond or the absence of state's money."

"It was fantastic to see this region come together doing just that. Not having any guarantee that the state is going to have any resources available," Wasky said of OurSIRDA, noting he was impressed by the group's cooperative efforts to developed a plan with regional vision, goals and objectives.

Bob Demaree

He said IEDC is looking for regions committed to continued implementation once the state's money has been invested, and to thinking creatively of continuing to deploy those funds to see there opportunities to invest them to return those funds to the region.

"Once this initial investment is made the region will continue to find ways to advance their plan," Wasky said, describing the scenario the state hopes to develop.

The IEDC funding formula has been outlined to consist of 20% from READI, 20% from local government, 60% from the private sector but on Friday, Wasky indicated some flexibility in those percentages.

"Depending on the project program we're going to be investing in, that could be split differently, but we still want to be sure that the majority of the investment of the plan is coming from private sector" because the IEDC believes that will help drive additional investment. "It shows the commitment of the private sector and provides some skin in the game for them to take ownership of the plan to be sure it is to continue to be implemented."

Courtney said the City of Madison plans to submit "multiple projects" that fall into four categories ranging from Housing and Quality of Life to Infrastructure and Education."

He said it's still "a bit early" to disclose the projects until OSIRDC releases the submission template at the upcoming meeting Wednesday at Hanover College.

• Approved traffic improvement recommendations from Madison Police Chief John Wallace. At the southeastern corner of Fourth and Jefferson streets, the yellow no parking zone line will be extended one extra parking space because drivers turning south on Fourth Street are unable to see northbound traffic if vehicles are parked there. At First and Cragmont streets the yellow no parking zone will be painted consistent with the rest of the intersection where new sidewalks were installed at the Riverside Tower Lofts.

• Approved street closures for the Broadway School Reunion on Saturday, Sept. 18, from the alley north of Presbyterian Avenue to Fifth Street from noon until 10 p.m. Event organizer Floyd Gibson Jr. noted a bit nervousness for safety and health reasons as the event returns after being canceled last year due to COVID-19. Madison Mayor Bob Courtney said he wants them to feel safe to enjoy the reunion, calling it "a fantastic event, and we want to make sure it's successful again."

• Approved street closures for the Historic Broadway Hotel and Tavern's block party Wednesday, June 30, on Broadway Street running south from Main Street to the north side of Second Street from 3 p.m. to 11:30 p.m.

• Approved street closures for Wine, Stein and Barrel, an fundraising event for Madison Riverfront Development Corporation, on Saturday, June 19, from 2 p.m. to 11 p.m. on Vaughn Drive between the west side of West Street and the east side of Poplar Street. Nearly 700 participants are expected, according to MRDC representative J.D. Webster.

• Received a mid-point PACE update from Nicole Schell, director of planning, on a property at 2042 Wilson Avenue. The windows and roof have been completed to the house, which was a dilapidated structure. "I'm glad to see it getting new life," Courtney said. The board also granted two-month extensions to three PACE projects including: Marcus Gray at 928 Park Avenue, Derek Hughes at 411 Jefferson Street, and Eric Dodge at 518 Jefferson Street.

More than anything else, he loved spending time with his daughter-in-law, son and five grandchildren. His greatest accomplishment was being the best Father and grandfather anyone can be. Mr. Taylor passed away June 3, 2021 at his home.

His life will be cherished by his son and daughter-in-law: Brandon and Sheri Taylor of Madison; his sisters: Rhonda Noel and her husband, John of Lexington, Patty Ferrell and her husband, Mike of Bedford, Indiana; his brother: Billy Banks and his wife, Quinella of Crowley, Texas; his grandchildren: Casey Applegate, Conner Applegate, Braeton Taylor, Hannah Taylor and Jia Taylor. In addition to his parents, he was preceded in death by his step-father, Howard Banks; his brother, Gerald Banks and his aunt, Helen Hunt.

The Honor Guards of the United States Navy and the American Legion, Post #9 will conduct Military Graveside Services at 2:00 PM Monday June 7, 2021 at Indiana Veterans Memorial Cemetery, on Madison's hilltop with interment to follow. Friends and family may call at the Lytle Welty Funeral Homes & Cremation Service, Vail Chapel from 11:30 AM to 1:30 PM Monday, June 7, 2021.

STATE TRACK FINALS

Shawe's Leatherman places 10th in high jump

Rebels' Bates 15th in high jump; Cubs' Perry 22nd in 200

BY DAVID CAMPBELL

Shawe's Emmalina Leatherman clears the bar during the high jump competition at the IHSA Girls Track & Field State Finals in Indianapolis on Saturday.

INDIANAPOLIS — Nervous in her first meet on the state's biggest stage, Emmalina Leatherman jumped right into the bar on her first attempt at the high jump and her second attempt wasn't much better. But rather than put her head down and give up, Leatherman refocused and cleared the bar on her third and final attempt.

From there, the Shawe sophomore was off and running, clearing her next three heights and setting a new personal record while placing 10th in the high jump at the IHSAA Girls Track & Field State Championships at Ben Davis High School in Indianapolis on Saturday.

Leatherman ended up clearing 5 feet, 5 inches to break her personal best by one inch and actually tied for sixth with five other jumpers. But due to attempts, she officially finished 10th, one spot out all-state honors.

"I was really nervous. My legs felt like they were ready to give out," Leatherman said. "A talk with my coach helped boost me up."

Leatherman was one of three local athletes competing in the state finals this past weekend, which were moved from Indiana University in Bloomington to Ben Davis High School due to the COVID-19 pandemic. Southwestern's Owen Bates placed 15th in the boys high jump on Friday while Madison's Lundun Perry ran 22nd in the girls 200-meter dash on Saturday.

While Leatherman missed her first two attempts at the opening height of 5-foot-even, she sailed over the bar on her third and then nailed her first attempt at 5-foot-2. She missed her first attempt at 5-foot-4 but easily hit the second then missed her first two attempts at 5-foot-5 before clearing the third — leading to a huge smile.

Having already posted a career-high, whatever happened next was icing on the cake. She came close on her first attempt at 5-foot-6 but missed the next two to end her day.

Warren Central senior Tacoria Humphrey won the state title at 5-foot-9, besting Whiteland senior Isabella Jackson on attempts.

Unlike Leatherman, Bates easily cleared his first attempt at 6-foot-even then needed only two attempts to clear 6-foot-2. The Southwestern senior then ran into trouble on his third height despite clearing 6-foot-4 on his first attempt and being all the way off the mat by the time the bar finally fell.

Under previous rules, Bates' attempt would have counted since he was off the mat but new rules state that as long as the bar is moving, the jump is not official so once the bar tumble it was a scratch.

Big 6th inning costs Trimble 12-4 regional loss to Oldham

BY DAVID CAMPBELL

Trimble County shortstop Emma Ginn flips the ball to second baseman Lauren Haney (7) as Oldham County's Kate Pettit (19) slids into the bag during the 8th Region tournament quarterfinals at Oldham County on Sunday.

David Campbell

BUCKNER, Ky. — For five and a half innings, Trimble County stood toe-to-toe with one of the best teams in the Eighth Region. As the two teams headed to the bottom of the sixth, the Raiders trailed only 6-4, perfectly within striking distance of their potent offense.

But everything fell apart in the bottom half of the sixth. Two key errors — and two other defensive mistakes — opened the door for a six-run inning and Oldham County pulled away for a 12-4 win in the Eighth Region Softball Tournament Quarterfinals Sunday on the Colonels' home field.

It was a disappointing ending to a spectacular season for Trimble, which reached the regional tournament for the first time since 2004. But as far as head coach Randy Wilson was concerned, Sunday's game was a win.

"I'm proud of them. A lot of people thought this was going to be a three-inning game and we were down two runs going into the bottom of the sixth," Wilson said. "We got beat by eight, but for our girls to come out and compete the way they did, I'm super proud of these kids. They didn't give up with the mentality that they could compete and they did."

Trimble County (24-12) spent the past 15 years battling with Oldham County and its two county cousins North and South Oldham in the 29th District, but was moved to the much more competitive 31th District in January. The Raiders earned the No. 2 seed in the district playoffs and headed to the regional as district runnerup where old rival Oldham once again awaited.

But Trimble never backed down. The Raiders came into the game batting .411 as a team and hit Oldham starter Kalee Rose for 12 hits in the game and took a 1-0 lead in the top of the third when Kaylee Payton walked and later scored on Emma Ginn's RBI single.

But Oldham (28-7) answered every Trimble rally. The Colonels struck for three runs in the bottom of the third, highlighted by a Kayley Batts' two-run home run, to push ahead 3-1.

Trimble came back in the fifth with a solo home run by Rachael Liter — her ninth of the season — and a double by Ginn before an RBI single by McKenna Ritchie tied the game 3-3.

Oldham answered, scoring three runs in the bottom of the fifth, to pull back on top 6-3 but Trimble wasn't done yet. Payton reached on an infield single and, after advancing to second on a Maddie Nixon sacrifice bunt, scored on Liter's RBI double to center to close the gap to 6-4.

Ritchie, who has been battling a bad back, began to tire in the circle in the sixth and her defense also let her down. Two outfield errors coupled with two defensive lapses and five Oldham hits spelled doom for the Raiders. Ritchie gave way to Hannah Chilton four batters into the frame and closed out the inning with Oldham blowing open the game.

Trimble got one runner on in the seventh but could manage nothing else to end the game.

Liter went 3-for-4 in her final high school game and finished her senior year hitting .549 with nine home runs and 60 RBIs. Ginn, just a sophomore, went 2-for-4 with an RBI and finished the season hitting a spectacular .670 — third in the state — with 15 home runs, 15 doubles and a state-leading 76 RBIs.

Lauren Haney also had two hits for the Raiders while Chilton, Jaelyn Holbrook and Shelby Wilcoxson each had a hit. Ritchie (19-9) allowed nine earned runs on 11 hits in five and a third innings with one strikeout to take the loss.

While the Raiders were disappointed with the loss, there were no tears. A team with only three seniors won 24 games and reached the regional tournament for the first time since before many of them were born. Wilson is excited about what his team can do next year.

"We've got some big shoes to fill with our seniors leaving and we've got to make some moves in the field, but I think we'll be just as successful next year," Wilson said. "We've got McKenna back and a few eighth graders who will be freshmen who can pitch so the future is bright. I'm looking forward to it."

Oldham County faced Grant County in the semifinals on Monday with Henry County and Collins playing in the other semifinal. The championship game is today in Buckner.

ANNIE LANE
DEAR ANNIE

Dear Readers: A great many of you wrote to say that I suggested that yoga and diet can cure depression. In no way, shape or form do I believe that. Depression is a disease like any other and requires medical attention, love and support. I suggested medical counseling in a previous column, but I wish I had been clearer in stating my belief that seeing a doctor for depression is absolutely essential. Here is a sampling of the feedback:

Dear Annie: I am writing to comment on the letter from "Blessed and Happy Woman," who lectured us all in an extremely superior manner about how she overcame depression with yoga and dietary changes and some other claptrap. Sounds to me like she was less depressed and more sad.

She needs to understand that chemical depression is a very real and harmful thing that cannot be overcome by eating broccoli and doing your platitudes about how amazing you are in the mirror every morning. In fact, treatment for actual major depressive disorder has about a 65% effective rate, and the remaining 35% just suffer through life until their depression kills them by suicide or disease brought on by the stress and anxiety of depression.

Please inform your readers that to implement the "cures" that Blessed and Happy Woman suggested for people actually suffering from depression will end in misery and disaster. I suggest Blessed and Happy Woman study depression and its effects on individuals and families, and perhaps turn her smug condescension into learning how to shut up and listen and understand the perspectives of other people. It's not all about her. — Educated and Fuming

Dear Annie: "Blessed and Happy Woman" was a bit off. Prayer and diet cannot "cure depression." You did mention the counsel of a doctor, but I want to stress that a doctor is absolutely necessary when dealing with mental health issues.

People still have such a fear of mental illness, but it is no different than a physical illness like diabetes or asthma. People have no fear disclosing that they have asthma and need medication for it. It's so sad that people still live in fear of disclosing their mental illness.

I'm afraid that you had an awesome opportunity to speak about the power of seeking professional help when there is an issue with mental health. You responded meekly, not with the response I expected — that she should get her butt into counseling and anyone in the same position should as well. You dropped the ball, unfortunately. Otherwise, I do enjoy your column. — Correcting an Annie

"Ask Me Anything: A Year of Advice From Dear Annie" is out now! Annie Lane's debut book — featuring favorite columns on love, friendship, family and etiquette — is available as a paperback and e-book. Visit http://www.creatorspublishing.com for more information. Distant daughters-in-law

DEAR ANNIE

Dear Annie: For years, I have tried to have a relationship with my two daughters-in-law, and at some point, I finally gave up. Now, when we get together, the family gatherings are not horrible. But at best, they are superficial.

It is very difficult to have conversations when they text nearly the entire time — which I never address — or converse back and forth between each other and ignore me, even when I interject into conversations. It is as if I'm invisible or in a cone of silence.

When the holiday or event is over, then it's goodbye with a kiss and a hug and out the door until the next major birthday or holiday. I have, in the early years, tried to meet them for lunch — on my dime — or go shopping, but they have always respectfully declined.

This apathy has carried over into my grandchildren. All of them are so close and personable with the other grandparents, who are wonderful people, and I do understand how daughters are just naturally close to their moms, so it stands to reason that the grandchildren would be closer to them since more time is spent there.

I am a grieving mom and grandmother who has tried, to no avail. I feel loved at a distance and pray for a better connection and relationship. I am thankful for the moments I have had, even with the feeling of distance. At least they haven't gone out of my life completely. — Grieving Grandmother

Dear Grieving Grandmother: You are wise to be grateful for the good moments you have had. If you focus on what you appreciate, you will attract more of that. In the meantime, where are your sons? I would suggest that you take them to lunch, rather than your daughters-in-law, and let them know that you are feeling left out.

Along the same lines, if your daughters-in-law are texting and ignoring you during a holiday dinner, why not use that as an opportunity to talk to your sons and grandchildren?

Dear Annie: I am a woman in my 50s who always thought I had good manners. Recently, I have had several appointments with a new physician, who is in her 30s. She knew she had been recommended by my friend and next-door neighbor, who is a physician of the same specialty but does not see private patients.

She immediately addressed me by my first name, which I thought was friendly and lovely. When I reciprocated and called her by her first name, she informed me that it was not appropriate for a patient to call a doctor by her first name.

Did I miss something in my junior high etiquette classes, or did she? Is there a rule about how people in a professional relationship should address each other? — Just Wondering

Dear Wondering: Since she was referred to you by your neighbor, who is a doctor and who, I assume, you call by her first name, it is understandable that you addressed this young physician by her first name. However, as a general rule, it is better to err on the side of caution and address doctors as "Dr." until they tell you otherwise.

Pulisic scores in extra time, U.S. beats Mexico, 3-2

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

DENVER — Christian Pulisic lifted a trophy for the second time in eight days, this time his first for the United States.

Ethan Horvath, back in Colorado for the first time in three or four years, expected to watch the game from the bench and found himself saving Andrés Guardado's penalty kick — in the 124th minute!

The first CONCACAF Nations League final turned on an injury and not one or two but three video reviews.

"This is the perfect way to end the year," Pulisic said after his penalty kick in the 114th minute led the United States over Mexico 3-2 Sunday night in frantic finale of the first CONCACAF Nations League.

Or as U.S. coach Gregg Berhalter put it: "One of the classic, odd U.S.-Mexico games."

A testy match that was stopped for about three minutes in second-half stoppage time because of discriminatory fan chants at Empower Field also was marred by American attacker Gio Reyna getting hit on the face by a thrown object following Pulisic's goal.

"Total lack of respect for what's happening on the field and all effort that both teams are putting into the game," Berhalter said. "I think he's going to be OK, but he did take something to the head, and it could have been a lot worse."

Horvath, who a week earlier played his first international match since March 2019, entered in the 69th minute, seven minutes after starting U.S. goalkeeper Zack Steffen fell to the ground, clutching his left knee, after coming off his line in what seemed to be a routine manner to grab a through pass from Héctor Herrera that was too far for Uriel Antuna .

"If you're on the bench as a keeper, you don't expect to come in the game," said the 25-year-old Horvath, who had about 20 family and friends at the match.

Jesús Corona put 11th-ranked Mexico ahead 62 seconds in after a sloppy giveaway by defender Mark McKenzie, whose poor pass into Corona's path in the U.S. penalty area allowed the Mexican to break in alone on Steffen.

El Tri appeared to go up 2-0 in the 24th minute on a header by an unmarked Héctor Moreno, but a video review disallowed it for offside after Panamanian referee John Pitti consulted VAR.

Reyna, a son of former U.S. captain Claudio Reyna, tied the score in the 27th minute with his third international goal. The 18-year-old kicked in a rebound after Weston McKennie's header from Pulisic's corner kick hit a post.

Diego Lainez gave Mexico a 2-1 lead in the 79th, one minute after entering, when he cut inside from Tim Ream and beat Horvath. McKennie tied the score three minutes later with a header from Reyna's corner kick for his seventh goal.

By then Berhalter had changed tactics. He started five defenders that included Sergiño Dest as a wingback, a formation that could morph into a 4-3-3, then switched midway through the second half to four in the back.

Pulisic, fresh off of winning the Champions League with Chelsea on May 29, made the decisive move when cut inside the penalty area in the 108th minute and was pulled down by Carlos Salcedo.

Pitti did not initially signal a penalty but consulted a video review and then pointed to the spot. Mexico coach Tata Martino appeared received red card, apparently for putting a hand on an official during the review, and Hirving Lozano was given a yellow card for arguing after the decision.

Pulisic sent the ball to the upper corner past the left arm of goalkeeper Guillermo Ochoa for his 16th international goal.

Pitti again did not make a call in the 119th minute when Luis Romo's header went off the left arm of McKenzie, whose arm was perhaps only slightly outstretched. Another lengthy wait for a video review followed.

"It plays with your head a little bit when it takes long for the ref to decide whether it's a PK or not," McKennie said, "and he didn't lose his head. He went with his gut and his instinct and his training."

Horvath waited to the last moment and dived right to bat away the penalty by Mexico's captain.

"It's been a tough season for him, and to come have a performance like that in his hometown was the stuff that storybooks write about," Berhalter said.

The U.S. survived an extended 11 minutes of stoppage time following the second extra period and beat Mexico in a competitive match for the first time since 2013 following a stretch of three losses and a draw, gaining confidence ahead of the start of World Cup qualifying in September.

"We're a young side and we need to learn how to win," Berhalter said. "It's also about the fight and spirit. .. They really showed the heart of champions."

Southwestern's Owen Bates reacts after his final miss in the high jump competition at the IHSAA Boys Track & Field State Championships in Indianapolis on Friday.

Bates admitted he was unaware of the new rule and was disappointed to learn of the scratch. He then missed his next two attempts to scratch out, tied with four other jumpers in 15th place.

"It's on me for not knowing the rule," Bates said. "Honestly, I was hopeful (on the next attempts) because I pretty much had it but it just wasn't the case."

The miss ended up costing Bates dearly. Had it counted — and on his first attempt — he would have finished no worse than eighth, good for all-state honors.

"A few years ago, that would have been a clear and he would have been moving on," Southwestern coach Zac Nussbaum said. "I just want to say how proud I am of the kid. To see where he has come from as a freshman to the athlete he has turned into and the job my wife (jumping coach Stephanie Nussbaum) did; they work so well together. It's been so neat to see him get to where he is."

Bates was pleased with his performance despite the miss. He will now head to Bellarmine University in the fall as a preferred walk-on and he was happy to end his high school career at the highest level.

"All I can say is that I did my best," Bates said. "I didn't perform the way that I wanted to, but at the end of the day, it was a really good season."

Lawrence Central Kamyren Garrett won the state title at 7-foot-even.

Meanwhile, a bobble at the start — one that lasted less than a tenth of a second — was all that it took to keep Perry out of contention in the 200 meter dash.

The Madison senior didn't get out of the block as well as she would have liked in her preliminary run in the 200 dash and finished seventh in the heat and 22nd overall at 26.78 — half a second slower than her time at regional.

"I was just stuck in my blocks and rather than pushing off like I normally do, I'm pretty sure I went back and then pushed off which lost me some time," Perry said.

Perry was clearly disappointed with her run, but considering that she, and everybody else, missed last season due to the pandemic, she was pleased with her season as a whole.

"It is crazy and and insane. I never thought I would be able to come up here," said Perry, who will run at the University of Indianapolis in the fall. "There are so many people and it's getting me ready for college. It was great."

North Central junior Ramiah Elliott won the 200 dash in 24.33, beating Lawrence Central senior Taylor Herbert by three tenths of a second.

Cathedral won the girls team state championship with 39 points, just one point ahead of Warren Central. Carmel rolled to the boys team state championship with 68 points, far ahead of runnerup Brownsburg with 40.
